

David Chandler: „The European Union and the Meaning of Statehood
in the Western Balkans“

27 June 2008, 1900 – 2100h, British Council, 8 Terazije Street

“...The EU promotes its power and influence in the language of state-building. David Chandler looks at what the EU means by 'state-building' and argues that this is a misleading and problematic conception. He will also look at how the EU justifies the powers of its Special Representatives to impose law and sack elected politicians at the same time as arguing that it is promoting democracy and the rule of law in the region...”

The lecture will be followed by debate.

To apply or get further information, please contact tijana.kovacevic@britishcouncil.org.yu

The number of participants is limited.

David Chandler is Professor of International Relations at the Centre for the Study of Democracy, University of Westminster. He is a regular media commentator, editor of the Journal of Intervention and State-building and the editor of the Routledge book series Studies in Intervention and State-building.