

The Symposium on 'Markets, Power, and the Cultural Production of Knowledge'

Centre for the Study of Governance and Society (CSGS)

King's College London

Marriott Regents Park Hotel, 29 Nov to 2 Dec 2023

SESSION 1: Thursday, 9-10.30am

Daniele Guizzo, University of Bristol

"Owning the Truth? The (de-)monopolisation of expert academic knowledge in economics"

Pavel Kuchar, King's College London

"The epistemological break in economics: What does the public know about the economy and what do economists know about the public?"

SESSION 2: Thursday, 11am-1.15pm

Brian Salter, King's College London

"When markets and hegemonies collide: Islam, assisted reproductive technology and the politics of emergence"

Carlos Palacios, Macquarie University

"The productive government of value creation: From Hayek to Foucault"

David Chandler, University of Westminster

"Producing the Postmodern 'Real': Rethinking Critiques of AI and Big Data"

SESSION 3: Thursday, 5-6.30pm

Mitchell Dean, Copenhagen Business School

"Can liberalism still function as katechon? Hayek, Foucault and Schmitt"

Virgil Storr, George Mason University

"The dark side of market friendships"

SESSION 4: Friday, 9-10.30am

Robert Reamer, King's College London

"Markets and Metis: Reading Hayek with Scott"

Sam DeCanio, King's College London

"The Politics of Nomadic Hardship: Wilfred Thesiger and the British Orientalist Critique of Modernity"

SESSION 5: Friday, 11am-1.15pm

Daniel Zamora, Université Libre de Bruxelles

"The rise of cash transfers and the demise of development economics"

Wanjiru Njoya, University of Exeter

"Defending private property: an analysis of the false dichotomy between economic and human liberty"

Mark Pennington, King's College London

"Freedom and Rights: Power/Knowledge and the Social Construction of Liberal Justice"

SESSION 6: Friday, 2.30-4.45pm

Giandomenica Becchio, University of Turin

"A Cultural History of Gender: Why Gender Matters in Economics"

Humeira Iqtidar, King's College London

"Justice Beyond Rights: Global South Migration and Critical Theory"

Philipp Schoenegger, University of St. Andrews

"On the Epistemological Similarities of Market Liberalism and Standpoint Theory"

Discussion Leader: Pavel Kuchar, King's College London